

Membership Categories and Fee Schedule

Currently, APRES has approximately 500 members representing 20 countries. Five classes of membership are available to the peanut industry and to the general public:

Individual Membership:

Individuals

Institutional Membership:

Libraries of industrial and educational groups or institutions and others that pay dues to receive the publications of the Society. Institutional members are not granted individual member rights.

Student Membership:

Full-time students presently enrolled at any recognized college, university, or technical school.

Sustaining Membership*:

Industry organizations and others who wish to support this Society financially to an extent beyond minimum requirements. Sustaining members may designate one representative who shall have individual member rights. See list

All classes of membership may attend all meetings and participate in discussions. Only individual members or those with individual membership rights may vote and hold office. Members of all classes shall receive minutes of all Proceedings of the American Peanut Research and Education Society.

*Sustaining members receive discounts and member perks related to the APRES Annual Meeting. The 2020 Annual Meeting will be virtual and the member benefits and discounts associated are different. Therefore, there is only one category of Sustaining Membership for 2020-21. Download the 2020 APRES Virtual Annual Meeting flyer to see how your organization can support APRES!
